1. These terms of use

- (a) You agree with Columbus Financial Services Limited (Flight Centre Mastercard) to these terms of use of the Flight Centre Mastercard with Google Pay (the "Terms of Use") by:
 - (i) adding a Flight Centre Mastercard to your Digital Wallet, or
 - (ii) allowing another Additional Cardholder to add a Flight Centre Mastercard linked to your Flight Centre Mastercard Account to their Digital Wallet.
- (b) These Terms of Use apply in addition to the terms and conditions in your Flight Centre Mastercard Terms and Conditions (Cardholder Terms). To the extent of any inconsistency between them, these Terms of Use take precedence over the Cardholder Terms.

2. Definitions

In these Terms of Use:

- (c) "Digital Wallet" means the Google Pay app on an Android Device.
- (d) "Google" means Google Inc. and includes its related bodies corporate and affiliates.
- (e) "Google Pay" means Google's mobile payment and digital wallet service that lets users make payments using credit cards or debit cards registered on certain Android Devices.

3. Your responsibilities and liability

WARNING: Any person who can unlock your Android Device may be able to make transactions using a Flight Centre Mastercard registered in Google Pay.

- (a) You agree to protect and keep confidential your Passcode (or any other biometric identifier registered on the Android Device) and any other information required for you to make Transactions using your Digital Wallet, including by using a unique number or pattern for your Passcode that is not obvious and cannot be easily guessed, by memorising your Passcode or carefully disguising it, by never keeping a record of your Passcode with any Android Device or on your computer and never telling anyone your Passcode, and by taking reasonable precautions when using your Flight Centre Mastercard in your Digital Wallet.

- (b) You agree to keep your Android Device safe and secure (including by locking it when not in use or when it is unattended), and to remove any Flight Centre Mastercard from your Android Device before disposing of the Android Device.
- (c) You are liable for losses you incur as a result of the use of a Flight Centre Mastercard linked to your Flight Centre Mastercard Account via Google Pay (including losses caused by Unauthorised Transactions) unless:
 - (i) any of the circumstances in which you are not liable that are described in the Cardholder Terms apply; or
 - (ii) applicable law provides otherwise.
- (d) In the sections of the Cardholder Terms which deal with your liability in case your Flight Centre Mastercard is lost or stolen or in case of unauthorised use, each reference to a 'PIN' includes a reference to your Passcode and each reference to a lost or stolen card includes a lost or stolen Android Device (with a Digital Wallet to which a Flight Centre Mastercard linked to your Flight Centre Mastercard Account has been registered), with all necessary modification.
- (e) The Cardholder Terms require you to contact us immediately if you believe there are errors or if you suspect fraud with your Flight Centre Mastercard. This includes any fraud associated with your Digital Wallet. If any Android Device with a Digital Wallet that contains a Flight Centre Mastercard linked to your Flight Centre Mastercard Account (other than where your Flight Centre Mastercard has been fraudulently added to a Digital Wallet on an Android Device without your knowledge) has been lost or stolen, or if you believe the security of such an Android Device has been compromised, you are responsible for ensuring this is reported to us immediately. If an Additional Cardholder allows any other person's fingerprint or face identifier to be registered on the Additional Cardholder's Android Device, or if the Additional Cardholder shares their Passcode with any other person, you are taken to have authorised that person to transact on your Flight Centre Mastercard Account using Google Pay. This means that any Transaction using Google Pay that is initiated by such person using the fingerprint, face identifier or Passcode will be authorised by you and the Cardholder Terms dealing with Unauthorised Transactions will not apply, which could result in significant loss or liability in relation to such Transactions.

registered to a Digital Wallet (other than where your Flight Centre Mastercard has been fraudulently added to a Digital Wallet without your knowledge), you are responsible for ensuring that the Additional Cardholder complies with these Terms of Use.

- (h) If you add a Flight Centre Mastercard to an Android Device and have other Android Devices sharing the same Google account ("Other Devices"), this may permit the Flight Centre Mastercard to be added to the Other Devices and permit users of the Other Devices to see information about your Flight Centre Mastercard.
